Malaria is preventable and treatable. Even so, each year 350 to 500 million people are infected with malaria. African children under the age of five account for 75 percent of those who die —that's 3000 children each day and 20 percent of all childhood deaths in sub-Saharan Africa. Sadly, nearly everyone living in tropical Africa has a malaria episode at least once a year. (Source: UNICEF) This past summer, First English summer interns worked very hard to raise awareness and money for the Bite Back campaign. By the end of the summer, they had raised enough money to purchase 100 nets.

This year, the Seraphim choir is continuing this support by collecting change at the beginning of each rehearsal to purchase more nets. The group has already raised enough for three nets. This is a practical and affordable way for youth to make a real difference in a world of great need.

"Biting Back" is easy!

Each $10 donation will.....

- Purchase a long-lasting insecticide-treated net
- Distribute the net to someone who needs it
- Teach them how to use it
- Provide education and awareness
- Save a life!

GOSPEL PRAISE ENSEMBLE—AUGSBURG COLLEGE

On Sunday, November 1, the Gospel Praise Ensemble from Augsburg College will add to the festivity at our North Site worship services. Combining a 20-member jazz band with eight vocalists, this group plays everything from traditional gospel tunes to African-American jazz standards and Jamaican reggae to Native American songs. Two of the pieces that the group will share at worship are pieces that the Seraphim Choir is planning to begin working on with a jazz group from First English. It will be great for our group to hear "When the Saints Go Marching In" and "This Little Light of Mine" in preparation for our own version of these pieces.

Seraphim will also be singing at the 10:30 service, and our choir is invited to join the Augsburg choir for lunch following the worship . Please e-mail Melissa Moll (mmoll@felc.com) by October 21st to let her know if you are planning to attend the lunch on November 1. We need salads, sandwich fixings and desserts for the luncheon. Please contact Margaret Zweig at mzweig@new.rr.com if you can bring any of the above items or if you would be willing to help set up or clean up for the luncheon.
